LOCAL BRIEFS.

——Warmer again.

——Railroad travel is light.

——Guano men continue to take out licenses.

——4-paws circus men were billing Weldon yesterday.

——Spring overcoats will be worn shorter than the winter styles.

——With yesterday came the vernal equinox, the days and nights exactly equal in length for a week or more.

——There will be a meeting of the Monogram Hop Club at the office of W. A. Turk to-night at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

——Henry Bischoff, of New York city, was yesterday appointed a commissioner of affidavits for North Carolina.

——Benj. Moffitt, the treasurer of Randolph county, yesterday drew $237.-79 from the State treasury, this being the apportionment due his county from the school fund.

——We learn that Prof. J. Abner Harrell, formerly of Henderson, Granville county, and the note-book man of the first State Press Association, has invented a wind-mill which stands in front of his office at Franklin, Va.

——Our correspondent "Arachel" will please pardon our delay in the publication of his communnication. It became misplaced and was only found yesterday. We hope he will let us hear from him again.

——Thoughts of spring clothes are rising unbidden in almost every bosom, and the impecunious young man, as he views the ragged edges of last season's vestments, wonders in his heart of hearte where their successors are to come from.

——The owner of the much talked of two stolen pigs turned up, yesterday, in the person of Mr. Chas. Horton, of Rhamkatte, and took his pigs home, They had fearful appetites, and the tax-payers of the city are to be congratulated that they have gone.

——The remains of Mr. W. H. Yeargin, who died suddenly in this city Monday evening, of heart disease, were taken, yesterday, to Neuse depot where they were interred. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Pritchard, who accompanied the funeral concourse.

The Death of Chas. W. Horner.

The Hillsboro Recorder contains these additional particulars of the death of Chas. W. Horner, which event was noted in the NEWS of yesterday: "He was found frozen to death, on Sunday morning, near Ellerber's creek, a few miles from Durham. He had left Durham in the evening, during the snow, in an unfortunate condition, and, as may be supposed, he became helpless in the biting weather of Saturday night. He was about 30 years of age."

Counterfeit Nickels.

Large numbers of counterfeit nickels are in circulation in the city. They are of pewter, and the counterfeit is the worst in the world, so bad, indeed, that it is astonishing how any one can be fooled with them. A countryman had several of these counterfeits passed upon him yesterday morning in the vicinity of the market. There seems to be ground for suspicion that some one hereabouts is engaged in counterfeiting nickels.

And Still They Come.

Deputy Sheriff H. D. Scarboro, of Montgomery, arrived in the city yesterduy, bringing to the pen. four convicts, all colored and all convicted of larceny. Their names and terms are as follows Frank Bostick, 3 years; Graham Baldwin, 3 years; Nathan McDonald, 10 years; Aaron Ledbetter, 10 years. These convicts are sent up by Judge McCoy.

Wrong Date Given.

In our notice yesterday, of the forthcoming meeting of the directors of the Western North Carolina Railroad at Morganton, the 10th of April was stated as the date of the meeting, whereas it should have been Thursday the 29th of March.

Side Meat 11 cents per pound, Shoulder Meat 9 cents per pound, White Sugar 12½ cents per pound, Coffee Sugar 11 cents per pound, Rumford's Yeast Powders 15 cents per bottle, 3 pound canned Tomatoes, 20 cents per can, Bologna Sausage, Maccaroni and Cheese, cheap for cash at Woollcott's Open Front Store.

M. Grausman, dealer in fancy and plain groceries, wines and fine liquors, is the only authorized agent for Thompson's wine and Old Nick Williams' whisky. tf

George T. Stronach & Co. are receiving daily fresh supplies of all kinds of goods, and they sell cheaper than any other parties on the market. They also sell Bradley's celebrated Guanos for 400 pounds of cotton, first picking. *

Digests of Supreme Court Decisions.

Where a store-keeper (under the U. S. revenue laws) in charge of a distillery belonging to A, promised to give A a certain sum per month as long as he "continued to carry on a distillery;" held, in an action by A upon the promise, that the contract was against the policy of the law, and A was not entitled to recover. Caton vs. Stewart.

In proceedings in attachment, an affidavit which sets out, "1st, that the defendant is indebted, &c., and, that the defendant has departed from this State with intent, as the affiant is informed and believes, to avoid the service of summons," is sufficient. Tess, Rogers & Co. vs. Brower.

Where, in an action against three defendants for goods alleged to have been sold and delivered to two of them at the request of the third, which action is tried before a referee who does not find any fact fixing a liability on the third defendant, but reports that plaintiff should have judgment against the defendant; held, that the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment against the third defendant. Allen vs. McAinn.

The statute (Battle's Revisal chapter 27, sec. 8), enumerating the duties and powers of county commissioners, makes no grade among them and gives no preference to one over another. Long v. Commissioners of Richmond.

A court has no power to interfere with the domestic administration of the affairs of a county so long as the Board of Commissioners act infra vires; Therefore where it was alleged that a Board of Commissioners had not levied a sufficient tax to defray the ordinary expenses of the county including the support of the poor, on account of the levy of a tax to pay for repairing the Court House, Held, to be no ground for interference by the courts. Ibid.

A tax levid professedly and improperly for one purpose can be collected and applied to any other legitimate purpose. Ibid.

It is not fraudulent for a Board of County Commissioners to superadd their personal credit to the credit of the county in a contract concerning the necessary expenses of the county. Ibid

Where an administrator loans money, belonging to the estate of his intestate, to the husband of one of the next of kin, and takes a note with the understanding that it is to be [illegible] of the wife's distributive share on final settlement; Held, that there is no presumption of law that the transaction is fraudulent. Moye vs. Petway.

The practice of granting judgment non obstante veredicto is very restricted, and is confined to cases where a plea confesses a cause of action, and the matter relied upon in avoidance is insufficient. Ibid.

A mortgage of a stock of merchandise, containing the provision that the mortgager is to remain in possession, and continue to sell the goods, approaches the verge of being on its face fraudulent in law, but is not so. Chartham vs. Hawkins.

In such case the mortgage affords the strongest possible ground of presumption of fraud, and the burden of disproving the fraud is upon the party claiming under the mortgage. Ibid.

Military Orders.

On Saturday last, March 17, the following general orders were issued from the office of the Adjutant-General of the State:

No. 1. Appointments of staff of His Excellency, the Governor, and commander-in-chief.

No. 2. Revokes all commissions issued under the old militia system.

No. 3. Contains new military act organizing the State Guard, and orders the same to be read by company commanders to their respective commands.

No. 4. Divides the State into three military districts, and assigns the uniformed and equipped companies to their proper battalions. Also orders election of field officers.

The battalions are organized as follows: The first battalion consists of the Raleigh Light Infantry, Newbern Greys, Elm City Riflemen, Goldsboro Rifles and Orange Guards.

The second battalion is composed of the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, Lafayette Light Infantry, Wilmington Light Infantry, Whiting Rifles, Hornets' Nest Riflemen and Charlotte Grays.

The Rowan Rifle Guards and the Cleaveland Guards are, as yet, the only companies assigned to the third battalion. The Southern Stars, of Lincolnton, recently formed, will be assigned to this battalion, as also companies now organizing at Statesville and Asheville.

A Step in the Right Direction.

Mrs. R. G. Lewis, the President of the "Ladies' Memorial Association," proposes having a dime party, April 4th, for the benefit ot the Association. The ladies are very anxious to raise funds to purchase head-stones for the graves of the Confederate dead, and all persons who feel an interest in the cause are earnestly requested to contribute. They can communicate with Mrs. Lewis on the subject.

Have Justices of the Peace Final Jurisdiction in Criminal Matters?

The constitution, before the adoption of the recent amendments, provided that Justices of the Peace should have exclusive original jurisdiction of all criminal matters where the punishment prescribed did not exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for one month. The constitution as amended strikes out "one month" and inserts "thirty days," so the prescribed punishment for all criminal offences for which Justices of the Peace have final jurisdiction is a fine, not to exceed fifty dollars and imprisonment not to exceed thirty days. We are informed that the Legislature failed [illegible] statutes conferring exclusive criminal jurisdiction on Justices of the Peace, to the requirements of the constitution as amended, in that the words "one month" were not stricken out in every instance where it was desired to give Justices exclusive jurisdiction of criminal matters, and the words "thirty days," inserted. It cannot be said that "one month" and "thirty days" are synonomous, because the Supreme Court has decided in the State vs. Upchurch, that they are not—that "thirty days" may exceed "one month," and as a matter of course "one mouth" may exceed "thirty days."

These are the views of the law as it now stands as given us by a member of the Raleigh Bar. which we give to the public as a matter of judicial news.

Convicted of Murder.

Four or five years ago, John Crudup, an excellent servant of Dr. Edward Crudup, of Franklin county, was murdered by a negro of the name of Hillman Morgan. Morgan was accused of stealing wheat, and John Crudup was a material witness against him. Knowing that John's evidence was greatly against him, Morgan waylaid John in an old field and beat his brains out with a rock. For four years Morgan eluded the officers of justice. More than a year ago Solicitor Harris obtained a clew to Morgan's whereabouts and procured a reward of two thousand dollars to be offered for his apprehension. Mr. W. V. Clifton, who had kept an eye on Morgan, went down to Fayetteville and arrested him and put him in Franklin jail. Last week he was tried by Solicitor Clarke and convicted of murder. We did not learn the day set for the execution or whether an appeal was taken. Anthony Mingea, who aided Morgan in the murder, was committed by Judge Cox of stealing, and was sentenced to the penitentiary, where he died. So murder will out.

The Fishing Interest in the Catawba and Yadkin Rivers.

His Excellency, Governor Vance, yesterday addresssed a letter to Governor Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, calling his attention to the act recently passed by the General Assembly of this State in regard to the artificial propagation of fish, and asking him to use his endeavors to have the obstructions to the passage of fish removed from the Catawba and Yadkin rivers after they enter his State. He reminds Governor Hampton that the Legislature of his State some years ago passed an act looking to the removal of such obstructions and he now asks him to have this law enforced and to give him such other co-operation as will enable him to promote the propagation of fish in the two streams named. The Governor states in his letter that it is hoped to have at least a million young fishes, shad and salmon, placed in these streams between this time and the close of the season.

Mayor's Court.

His Honor's docket yesterday showed these cases:

Abram Hughes and Cornelius Cater, the colored men who were up yesterday in the pig stealing case, of which mention was made in the NEWS, were again arraigned on their several counts in the bill of indictment. They were found guilty of stealing the pigs, also a lot of clothing. A bond of $100 in the first case and $500 in the latter was demanded of each, and in default of these they both went to jail to await trial at the next term of the Superior Court.

Julia Lane and Cynthia Brown, a couple of dusky laundresses, got into a row and had an affray over a pile of spoiled linen. T. R. Purnell appeared for Julia and C. M Busbee for Cynthia. The Mayor imposed a fine of $5 on each, but suspended judgment on good behavior.

Augustus Mitchell, colored, came up on the charge of stealing a lot of clothing and a pistol from Major W. A. Hearne. The theft was proven and some of the articles recovered. A bond of $200 was demanded for Augustus' appearance at the next term of the Superior Court, which he succeeded in giving, W. W. White and I. J. Young becoming his sureties.

M. L. Haynes, Henry Overby, W. R. Pepper, W. H. Martin and N. V. Denton were reported for violating the Sunday liquor law, and warrants were issued for their arrest, and the case will be up for hearing this morning.

The human voice in its sweetness and purity is deliciously musical; with throat affection and coughs it loses all attractions. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup restores it when failing through coughs, colds, etc.

FORESTVILLE.

Its Moral, Social and Industrial Advantages.—A Flourishing Wake County Village.

[Special correspondence Raleigh News.]

Nearly every section of the State has had its showing, through the columns of the NEWS, and why not ours?

Our village is immediately on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, fifteen miles from Raleigh, in the county of Wake. It is located on a somewhat elevated ridge, high and dry.

COTTON AND THE CEREALS

grow readily in the neighborhood, and remunerate the great energy and indefatigable industry of our farmers. Gen. L., a native and citizen of Edgecombe county, told the writer of this article, last year, that the farmers of the Forestville section [illegible] to the acre than was done in his county. "It is owing to superior enterprise and skill," said he.

Fruit flourishes here, and gardens yield bountifully. As a general thing, the water equals in purity that of the mountains. We know no place which can show a better health record. And it is no "big yarn" we are spinning when we affirm that the citizens of Forestville are of the very best quality—noble, generous, simple-hearted, kind and hospitable. Literally and absolutely no dissipation of any sort whatsoever exists here among young or old.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN.

Three stores are supplied with assorted merchandise to suit the wants of the people—all working in complete harmony, with not a discordant jar.

Mr. Jno. R. Dunn holds forth at his old stand at the junction of Raleigh and Rolesville streets. He also supplies all the farmers of this part of the country with fertilizers of various brands and prices. Just and equitable always, he is known far and wide, and honored and respected as few men are in these days.

Just below Mr. Dunn's is Mr. Elias Carver's new store. His energy and zeal and politeness bid fair to insure him his share of the public patronage.

Opposite where the Foundry avenue enters the main street is the well known store of that genial gentleman, Mr. David W. Allen. Ever mild and pleasant, he is ready to wait on customers in the way of dry goods and groceries or in handing out their letters and papers, with little Junius to keep things lively when the dull days of July and August come.

Located here is the foundry and plow manufactory of Messrs. W. B. Dunn and Abernathy. They are always busy; can't keep up with the demand, turning out from twenty-five to thirty plows per day, all ready for the field. Their machinery is driven by steam power.

Mr. M. E. Carver has also, within the village limits, a steam gin, where he makes the dust and lint fly every day for about six months in the year. He keeps everything moving about him.

Here, also, we find the laboratory where Dr. Congleton manufactures his Celebrated Family Medicines, with which he has alleviated many of the ills of human flesh.

A blacksmith's shop and a hospital for injured wagons and sick wheels also keep busy here.

Dr. Leroy Chappell, a physician with twenty-five years, experience, attends to the calls of the distressed and is fully up to all demands made upon him, by night or by day.

Our depot agent, Mr. Edward Allen, is polite, attentive, diligent and brisk.

Mr. Peter Francis attends strictly and closely to the manufacture and repair of boots and shoes.

Dr. A. R. Vann, a retired physician is engaged closely now in agriculture and knows exactly what to do with land and cattle. And his son Joseph, located near him, is keeping pace with him in the same pursuit.

Mr. T. O. Riggan takes care of our section of the railroad and is unwearied in his strict attention to his business.

We invite cordially the emigration of more good citizens.

TO CROWN THE LIST

of advantages possessed by our village, we have a church here, with preaching three times a month by Rev. Prof. W. B. Royall, and a Sunday school of sixty pupils. As next in importance to the church and offering facilities of instruction to the rising generation we have an Academy under the charge of Dr. R. H. Lewis, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, (1852), a teacher with elven years, experience.

ARACHEL.

The County Schools.

The board of school examiners of Wake county yesterday examined and awarded first-grade certificates to Misses Lula Bailey and Sarah E. Bailey, of Dayton post-office, this county. It may be mentioned in this connection, as a matter of general interest and cause for congratulation, that the board has within the past two years materially raised the standard of scholarship for these schools. The examinations which those proposing to teach these schools must undergo, have become much more rigid, and a great many ignorant so-called school teachers have thus been disposed of. It may now be taken as evidence of good attainments when one is able to pass an examination before this board, and it is well for the rising generation that this is the case.

Spitz Dogs.

Speaking of Spitz dogs, about whom so much is now being written, an exchange says: "There are recorded cases enough to justify a strict watchfulness of them, for, if predisposed to developments of hydrophobia, whether inherent or, as is suggested, through climatic influence, the fact is quite sufficient to justify exterminatory measures. Still, there remains a doubt of the truthfulness of all the newspaper stories which have floated in diffuse shapes through some of the sensational New York dailies. Too much of a good thing becomes stale, and too much Spitz dog hydrophobia business suggests fertility of imagination, rather than frequeney of actual occurrence."

The Southern Underwriters' Association.

This company went into liquidation yesterday, one year to a day from its organization. Thus far very little can be learned as to the actual condition of the association. It went into business claiming available assets to the amount of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, fifty-nine thousand dollars of which were said to be in United States bonds. The officers themselves do not hesitate to say that there has been great extravagance and mismanagement on the part of persons connected with the [illegible]; that agents have defaulted and that in the legitimate [illegible] for [illegible] withstanding [illegible] stances the [illegible] assets to re[illegible] companies and thus save its policy-holders. Another officer is very doubtful as to the company's assets, and really we very much doubt if any one knows or can ascertain, with anything approximating accuracy, the financial status of the corporation.

In a day or two additional facts may be developed in connection with the suspension of the association.

Personal.

J. N. Stearns, editor of the National Temperance Advocate, New York, is registered at the Yarbrough House.

Dr. G. W. Blacknall, proprietor of the Yarbrough House, has gone to Kittrell's Springs for a few days to recuperate his health.

Answer to a Question that Everybody Asks.

All the little steer-carts, the mule and horse carts, little wagons and big wagons, and trains carrying eight to ten cars, are loaded with either the "L & R" phosphate or the "National" soluble bone. STATE NEWS.

The Monroe band has been re-organized.

The Cabarrus Black Boys are being re-organized. Thus far 50 or 60 names have been enrolled.

Rats and matches came very near destroying the store of Mr. Tom Ellis, of Cedar Grove, Orange county, one night last week.

The floor of the Baptist Church in Shelby gave in last Sunday night, causing a great panic which only subsided after three-fourths of the congregation had escaped.

The Charlotte Observer says: "Our punster suggests that the numerous courting cats that make music upon the midnight air, should be hung for mewtiny." Kill your punster.

The residence of Mr. John W. Miller, of Charlotte, was burglariously entered last Sunday night and robbed of an overcoat, card stand, pair of shoes and a few articles of clothing.

Concord Sun: It is no sign of war, if you do see a lot of our citizens going around with their coat pockets full of rocks. It's a good habit and should be kept up so long as these small hurricanes last.

The Cherokee Herald learns that a difficulty occurred at Charleston, Swain county, on Monday, the 5th inst., between Phillip Jenkins and a Mr. Crisp, in which Crisp was fatally stabbed by Jenkins. Jenkins made his escape.

The Nut Shell says a number of citizens are endeavoring to organize a cavalry company in Newbern. Messrs. E. R. Page, J. W. Jones, Jas. A. Bryan and Hardy B. Lane have the matter in hand.

Concord Sun: We learn that Dan Cannon, one of the gang of negroes taken from this place, a short time since, by Mr. Jim Clayton, to mine in Ashe county, committed a rape upon a white lady at Ore Knob one day last week, and has been captured and jailed. Dan is experienced in crime.

According to the Observer a citizen of Charlotte got even with the organ-grinder who has been striking terror to the hearts of that community for the past two years. The man got a stage horn and stood at the door and helped him while he ground "Mollie Darling" on the streets and the organist has not appeared on that street since.

Monroe Enquirer: A man was arrested in one of our drug stores the other day, charged with stealing a lot of garden seed. On being carried before the magistrate a compromise was made, but there were costs to pay, and he having no money pawned his pistol and raised the required amount. Later in the day, while lounging around, he saw an opportunity and stole the pistol and left for parts unknown, leaving his benefactor, who had doubtless saved him from jail, minus a few dollars.

Gen. Devens in the Shenandoah.

The Staunton Valley Virginian of the 15th inst. says: "Attorney-General Devens is not unknown in the valley. In the summer of 1864 he commanded a brigade under Gen. Sheridan, and for a short time had his headquarters at the house of Mrs. McCoy, then living about five miles north of Staunton, on the Valley turnpike. While quartered there he won the respect of the entire family by his courtesy and gentlemanly deportment, and allowed no depredations whatever by the men under his command."

THE Southern Home: "The worst enemies of the cause of American freedom will be those who sing psalms of praise to Returning Board Hayes."

THE dispatches of yesterday indicate some apprehensions of trouble in Louisiana. Packard is threatening to assume the offensive. President Hayes warns him against any such foolish proceedings, and gives the country very plainly to understand that the federal army will be employed to put Mr. Packard down should he become factious.

MR. ROBERT TOOMBS, of Georgia, declares that had he been a member of the United States Senate he would have risen in his place and moved the confirmation of President Hayes's cabinet without a reference to committees. He, however, sees no result in President Hayes's proposed conciliatory policy towards the South beyond a "good time for the boys" who obtain the offices and the disruption of the "radical" party.

GOV. HAMPTON showed a pretty correct appreciation of the situation when he remarked the other day to the correspondent of the Charleston Journal of Commerce, who had asked his opinion about the proposition to have a new election in South Carolina, that he would not entertain it for a moment. "But," he added, "if Mr. Hayes would consent to make a new race for the Presidency, he would be quite willing to make a new canvass for the office of Governor." The project of holding a new election is believed to have been the product of Honest John Patterson, of Pennsylvania and South Carolina.

WILLIAM M. EVARTS, and Stanley Matthews, who chiefly conducted the case of the Fraudulent President before the Electoral Commission have, says the New York Sun, received their rewards. One is Secretary of State, and the other is elected Senator from Ohio, entirely through the influence of Hayes, and against the accepted usages of the party. Frelinghuysen and the other patriots who consummated the great crime are to get their pay gradually, so that public attention may not be too much attracted to the scandal. Now that the Senate has adjourned, and restraint upon Executive action is removed for the time being, provision will be made for all who contributed to complete the work of the Returning Boards, and to steal States from Tilden.

THE next Congress will open with a Democratic majority in the House of eight or ten votes. We are sorry to hear that it is being whispered that the administration party are making overtures to the Democrats of the South to permit a Republican organization of the next House, under the leadership of Garfield, in return for local self-government and river and harbor, levee, railroad and internal improvement appropriations. It is considered certain in Washington that many Southern men take kindly to this proposition. Whether they will remain in that attitude after Hayes has withdrawn the troops in South Carolina and Louisiana remains yet to be seen. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times says leading Democrats do not believe that the Southern Senators and members will so readily forget the wrongs to which they have been subjected in the past twelve years, and whilst it is certain that they take kindly to this proposition now, it is to be remembered that they are staking everything on the restoration of self-government in the South. The compensation for all this to the Democratic party, say the longer-headed Democrats, lies in the fact that if Hayes and the Federal power can so shape legislation in the next session of Congress as to dictate the policy to be pursued in a House organized by the Democrats, it will be better that he should take organization and control. So far as the future of the Democracy is concerned, the result of such a condition of things in 1878 would be an assured majority in both houses. The Senate will be Democratic at all events on the 4th of March, 1879.

VIRGINIA AND HAYES' SOUTHERN POLICY.

On the border, the most interesting and all absorbing topic of conversation lately has been the Hayes policy towards the South. The Richmond Enquirer, with its characteristic journalistic enterprise, obtained the views of some of the prominent men of Virginia on the subject, the main purpose being to ascertain their opinions relative to the duty of the Conservative party in the crisis. The question propounded by the reporters in the majority of instances was:

"What is your opinion of Mr. Hayes's policy? Is it meant in good faith to do justice to the South, and restore harmony between the sections, or is it rather a partisan shift?"

To this, Gov. Kemper replied:

"The Conservative party of Virginia and the South ought to preserve its organization unbroken. Its position is one of armed neutrality. Its policy at present is masterly inactivity. It ought to stand ready to support Mr. Hayes in all that is right and to oppose him in all that is wrong."

General W. H. F. Lee said that Mr. Hayes had promised much, but as yet had performed little. It was better and safer, therefore, to await developments—to prove him by his acts rather than his promises. At the first blush, Mr. Hayes' Southern policy, as viewed from a Republican standpoint, promised to be a liberal one, and so far as it applies to the local governments of the South should be met in the spirit in which it is offered.

General Bradley T. Johnson said:

Mr. Hayes is a Republican of the Republicans. He is made and supported by that party. All his movements are directed to build up and to break down the opposition. He and his party have found out that the negro vote cannot be made to divide the South, and that she is growing more solid and more powerful every day. He, therefore, seeks to break us up by divisions. The appeal to the old Whigs is intended to do that, and the crumbs of patronage which fall from the Federal tables are to be distributed so as to make a Southern Republican party. He will hold his party together in the North by standing to its old practices and principles. He hopes to divide us and thus secure the control of the country in the future.

All the quarrels between he and Blaine, and Morton, and Cameron are made up, and they will join in his attempt to form a party in the South.

He will fail. No political organization can be founded in the South on patronage alone. Our people are firm and will stand together. The few who are now seeking office will shortly be the most disgusted people of all; for they will get nothing and will be ashamed that they ever applied.

Look at the appointment of Fred. Douglas marshal of the District of Columbia—probably the most offensive appointment that could have been made The marshal under the old regime, introduces everybody to the President at receptions and levees.

These expressions reflect the views of the other leading gentlemen interviewed, and give us a fair idea of the prevailing sentiment in Virginia. The Enquirer, referring to these interviews, says: Their general tone shows conclusively that every overture from Radicalism must be regarded with the utmost suspicion, and that the integrity of the party must be preserved at all hazards. There are none of our leading men who are opposed to a policy of peace and pacification, but they have no compromise to make with dishonor.

We entirely agree with the Enquirer that until it shall be demonstrated beyond all shadow of doubt that Mr. Hayes intends to cut loose entirely from the corruptionists and rise superior to partisanship; until he proves by his works that he intends to be a national President, recognizing the Southern States as co-equal in the Union; until he shall grant us justice without asking a consideration, our only safety is in shunning him.

If we wrong him in our suspicion, for which we have full cause, we can make reparation. If we wrong ourselves by blindly committing our State to his support, it may be years before we can retrieve the blunder. The cry of the Radical party is no longer for vengeance. It is for quarter; quarter from those they have been trampling in the dust for years. Vituperation, hatred, and slander are no longer potent to band the Northern masses together against us, and the last hope is in bribing us to commit political suicide.

The Enquirer suggests that the State Central Conservative Committee meet and by its authoritative voice direct the people. Let them, it says, draw the line of duty so sharply that there can be no doubt as to who are for us and who are against us. Let them issue such an address as will force the weak-kneed either to renew their allegiance to the party or openly foreswear it. The true men of the Commonwealth look to them to seize the helm and keep the old ship in the right course.

We, of North Carolina, apprehend no break in our line. The few offices in the gift of Mr. Hayes could hardly seduce any considerable number of the people from their allegiance to the Democratic party. To destroy the last hope of the formation of a new white administration party in this State, President Hayes has appointed W. W. Holden to office here, and Fred. Douglass, a negro, to the Marshalship of the District of Columbia. There is no danger, now, from Hayesism, in North Carolina.

HAYES'S POLICY.

The New York Sun dissects and lays bare the Southern policy of Mr. Hayes. It says that corruption is the natural ally of fraud. Mr. Hayes, holding the Presidency by a fraudulent title, and having against him nearly half the Senate with a majority of the House of Representatives elected as Democrats, is compelled by the exigencies of his situation to endeavor to bribe enough of the hostile majority in the House to give him and his party a majority in that body, and enough of the minority in the Senate to weaken the opposition there and enable him to defy the spirit of antagonism which is active against him among some of the most powerful Republican Senators.

The bribery on which he has to rely is twofold. It consists in the first place in the appointment to office of men known as Democrats in all parts of the Southern States; and for this purpose he has selected a Democrat and a former rebel as his Postmaster-General, to manage the patronage of that great department throughout the boundaries of the former Southern Confederacy. But bestowing offices lavishly upon Southern men, while it might possibly answer the purpose of controlling the Forty-fifth Congress, cannot be sufficient to bring over any large proportion of the Southern Democracy; and, if other means could not be brought to bear, Mr. Hayes would still be exposed to the certainty of an entire overthrow in the Congressional elections of 1878. To obviate this danger, the second part of his scheme of wholesale bribery is designed.

It consists in an immense scheme of subsidies for such public works as the Southern Pacific Railroad and the James River and Kanawha Canal. By liberally applying the credit and the money of the United States in these directions, the Fraudulent President hopes to be able to purchase a sufficient body of the Southern people to constitute, independent of the negroes, a party in that quarter of the country strong enough to return, in 1878, a House of Representatives pledged to support him to the end of his time.

To every upright citizen nothing can be more hateful than the idea of such an intrigue as Mr. Hayes is now engaged in. The traitors to principle and to a cause who sell themselves for bribes, are odious and shameful all over the world, and excite nausea and contempt in all honest minds; but when such traitors sell themselves to maintain a great public fraud, the nausea and contempt are increased a thousand fold. Very possibly Mr. Hayes may at first meet with a seeming success, just as he has succeeded in getting himself installed as President when he was not elected. But such success can only be short lived. All the lessons of history teach us that the justice which ever-more dogs the footsteps of those who rob nations of their rights, never sleeps upon its course, and no kind of bribery can purchase exemption from its sentence.

PERSONAL.

Mark Twain pays taxes on sixty odd thousand dollars' worth of property.

[illegible] daughter whom he took from a New York orphan asylum when she was a baby.

In a Cambridge (Mass.) evening school is a man fifty-seven years old learning to read, and one forty years old studying primary arithmetic.

A thrifty young woman in Boston got up a handsome subscription for a letter carrier, and then married him and used the funds to defray the expenses of the wedding tour.

Mrs. Custer has declined a benefit and paid all her husband's debts in full. There is still a mortgage of $2,500 on the homestead, however.

Mr. Ruskin says that having reached fifty-five years, he cannot look with the old enjoyment at the setting sun. It seems to sink down too fast.

Raoul, Aimee's tenor, married a dancer, and his father, a rich bourgeoise, disinherited him. He now gots $1,000 a month, and has his wife and seven children.

The Japanese Minister in Washington is described as looking not over 20 years old, and as about the size of an American boy of 14. He wears cream colored trousers, seamed with gold, and a black coat with a gold collar.

Another American girl has come pretty near a title. Miss Angelina L. Warren, daughter of the late Richard Warren of Boston, was married in Paris recently to George Nonne, Secretary of the ex-King of Hanover.

Only one member of Secretary Thompson's family—his son Henry Thompson—is with him in Washington. The others will go there in the autumn. The Secretary's youngest child is a charming daughter twenty years old.

Miss Annie Clarke, the leading lady of the Boston museum, has a house in Needham which is 140 years old, and she has had an agent for years searching for the oldest furniture to be found in New England.

A Southern exchange sums up the Hayes policy in the following paragraph: "Having been so successful in the purchase of negro votes by the forty acres and mule promises, the Radicals have determined to attempt to secure the vote of the Southern white people by the same method."

Jung Bahadoor, who died the other day, was one of the "Maypaulese Embassadors," whose visit to England Thackeray celebrated in one of his brightest, most rollicking ballads. It is told of this gentleman that he so admired one of the stalwart British regiments that he expressed a wish to buy it and take it home with him.

London gossips remark that "Dizzy" is a very old man for his years, as compared with his predecessors, Lords Palmerston and Russell. He stoops, and leans heavily on a stout stick in walking. During the debate in the Lords, on the first night of the session, he fell into a doze and needed constant nudging.

The scandal about Patti has increased to such an extent that Edward King thus writes from Paris concerning it to the New York Post: "Ficolas or Nicolini, is very anxious that Patti should unite her fortunes with his for a grand operatic tour throughout the United States, and possibly, after her London engagement is concluded, the pair may conclude to undertake such an engagement. It is said that the effect of the scandal concerning Patti and Nicolini has been to shut the doors of fashionable society in Paris upon her, and to make future admission to it very difficult for any opera-singer."

NOTES AND OPINIONS.

Bouquets are now often sent to Paris ladies in the shape of fans. The flowers thus serve a double use.

Blaine and the administration shook hands and called it square a little too quick for the average Southerner.

The Indianapolis News remarks: "President Hayes is 'scratching the ticket' like an independent voter."

Governor Hampton has received $124,508 in taxes, pays the judges, and is supporting the penal and charitable institutions.

Pious Portland proposes to suppress Sunday papers. At least the work was begun last Sunday by arresting the little newsboys.

The Legislature of Indiana has passed a bill forbiding the changing of text books in public schools oftener than once in six years.

And now the Knoxville Age declares that for months it has been compelled to distrust Ex-Senator Key's Democracy.

Prince de Bauffremont's last judgment against his wife, Mme. de Bodisco, compels her to pay 1,000 francs a day for keeping her daughters with her.

During the course of the past year [illegible] persons of British origin left ports of the United Kingdom at which emigration offices are established. More than fifty per cent. of the whole number sailed for the United States.

Ex-Senator Fenton, who went to South Carolina in connection with the Matthews-Evarts letter to Chamberlain, is said to have been the author of the new election scheme. It is positively asserted he favored it.

The money lost by depositors in savings banks in this country, according to Appleton's Journal, equals only one-fiftieth of the amount paid to depositors in interest by the banks, and is only one-hundredth or one per cent of the deposits.

The Minnesota Forestry Association has offered to furnish from three to five hundred thousand young forest trees and cuttings to those who have lost their crops, and are now in danger of losing their timber claims for lack of money to purchase.

It is reported that Grandfather Taft feels bitter because Hayes wouldn't give him a seat in his Cabinet, and because he preferred Stanley Matthews to him as Senator from Ohio. Poor Taft! How much dirt he has eaten, and yet he falls of his reward!

Georgia certainly does not want to get rid of her labor or drive the "poor negro" beyond her borders. Hereafter all "labor agents," whose business it is to induce laborers to leave the State, will be required to pay a license of $500 in each county in which they operate.

President Hayes and the Troops in the South.

[N. Y. World.]

By the adjournment of the Senate President Hayes will be left face to face with his duties in regard to Louisiana and to South Carolina. Those duties are perfectly well understood by a decisive majority of the American people, and the sooner he gives practical evidence [illegible] himself understands them, the better for the interests of the whole country. For while he is weighing at Washington the consequences to himself and to his party of doing those duties or of leaving them undone, his delay in obeying the laws which his predecessor so obstinately and so insolently persisted in breaking, is breeding daily and hourly peril to the public peace. Governor Hampton, of South Carolina, has told President Hayes plainly at last what South Carolina needs at his hands to secure order within her borders and to liberate her fettered industries. It is taxing the patience of reasonable people a little too far for a President who holds his seat by virtue of a decision that Congress cannot go behind the returns of an electoral board in a Southern State, to assume that the Executive has a right to go behind the declarations of a Governor in a Southern State. President Hayes has no more constitutional right or authority to keep troops in the State-House of a sovereign State when the Governer of that State has requested him to withdraw them, than he has, against or without the request of the Governor of that State, to send troops there. He is openly and flagrantly breaking the laws which he has sworn to support, and it is not creditable to the good sense or the spirit of the American people that he is permitted to do this as composedly as if he were a Turkish Sultan or a Russian Emperor. His hesitation in relieving the people of Louisiana and of South Carolina from the presence of these troops is a direct encouragement offered to the intriguers and knaves who alone obstruct to-day the restoration of the reign of law in these States. It does not excuse him if it be true that citizens of those States, in their desperate eagerness for peace and order, are willing to enter into negotiations with him on the subject, and to make terms for the recovery of their rights as American citizens. He has asked the country to regard him as a statesman, not as a party politician; and his present conduct is not only stamping him irrevocably as a paltering juggler with fair words, but bringing him into imminent danger of proving himself a fomenter of riot, bloodshed and revolution.

Hayes' First Mistake.

[N. Y. Herald, March 17.]

Naturally every President has to make some mistakes in the course of his term, and, of course, the first must come some time. Mr. Hayes' first comes pretty early and is not a shockingly bad one. He has merely put Mr. Frederick Douglass in the wrong place in making him Marshal of the District of Columbia. Mr. Douglass' proper place is Boston. He should be made Collector of that port. Boston is very fond of Mr. Douglass and Mr. Douglass reciprocates the sentiment. He is a man of taste, culture, genius and modesty—qualities that Boston loves. He was formerly a slave, and that Boston adores. In short, there are so many substantial and valid reasons for making him Collector of Boston that we almost wish the Senate might reject the nomination actually made and thus give the President a chance to bestow on Mr. Douglass a distinguished mark of his favor. It seems a sad waste to throw away Mr. Douglass on the District of Columbia, where at least one-quarter of the population are colored people who cannot appreciate him, and where his most distinguished service is to stand on the right hand of the President's wife and introduce the guests at levees and other stifling entertainments. Mr. Douglass should go to cool and breezy Boston. It is a pity they did not give Mr. Douglass even the place just given to Mr. Morrill and Mr. Morrill the one given to Mr. Douglass.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

President Hayes Actively at Work Enforcing the Rules.

[Special Dispatch to the Philadelph a Times.]

WASHINGTON, March 16.

The new civil service rules, in preparation by Secretaries Evarts and Schurz, will be ready for consideration by the Cabinet by next week at least, probably on Monday or Tuesday. The competitive system, as used by the commission of which George William Curtis was president, will be applied in a modified form, and this time it will be put in the hands of those who desire the success of the scheme. Endorsements and recommendations by politicians will be disregarded, and candidates for appointment or promotion will stand upon their merits, of which the record of those already in office will form a part.

A striking example of the President's opinion of a favorite phase of Grantism occurred to-day. A gentleman of his acquaintance applied for appointment as United States Marshal of Illinois, and submitted his papers. The President examined all of them with great care, then tying them up and returning them to the applicant, he said: "Well, sir, your papers are all right, and I know you to be an excellent man for the position you seek, but there is an insuperable obstacle to your ever obtaining an office under this administration, and that is your wife is a favorite cousin of Mrs. Hayes."

THE EXHIBITION OF 1878.

Cordial Invitation to the People of the United States.

[Special to the Philadelphia Times.]

WASHINGTON, Mar. 16.

The French Minister, Monsieur Outrey, in an interview to-day with Mr. Nathan Appleton, of Boston, in relation to the United States taking part in the French Exhibition, requested him to announce that he would do his utmost to render what assistance he could. He had no doubt but that the plan of forming a provisional commission would be acceptable, and that official action in the peculiar position of things could be delayed by the French Government until the last moment. He wanted to see the Republic of the United States well represented at Paris in 1878, in which sentiment he was sure his feelings were those of the French people generally. Mr. Appleton leaves Washington to-night for Philadelphia to consult with parties who have been prominently connected with the Centennial, with a view to arranging some plan to bridge over the time until action can be taken by Congress to officially provide for the representation of the United States at the Paris Exhibition. The fact that Messrs. Appleton, Evarts, Forney and others, now moving in this matter, are members of the various committees charged with the arrangement for the erection of the French Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, will, it is believed, greatly facilitate the necessary negotiations with the French Exposition authorities.

Thrilling Anecdote of Booth.

[Washington Capital.]

An exchange, probably the Baltimorean, publishes the following thrilling anecdote of Junius Brutus Booth, that seems new, which is a miracle, considerthe number of "anecdotes" afloat on that actor:

One evening, when the elder Booth was playing Richard III. in a Baltimore theatre, in his maddest mood, just as the second act was about to commence, a messenger covered with dust rushed behind the stage, and, before he could be stopped, was in conversation with the tragedian. "What!" said Booth, as he pressed his long fingers on his broad white temples as though he had tried to clutch the brain beneath, "dead, say you? My poor little child—my loved, my beautiful one?" And then, seeing the curtain rise, he rushed on. The scene between Anne and Gloster was never better played. The actor gave the words of the bard with thrilling effect, but there was a strangeness about his manner that told his mind was not upon his character. Still the multitude applauded till the old roof rang again, and those behind the scene stood breathless with eager delight. The third act came out, but Booth was nowhere to be found * * * * It was a bitter cold night, and a farmer, as he drove his wagon to market, was startled from his reverie as he saw a horseman wrapped in a large cloak (and it opened and displayed a glittering dress beneath) ride rapidly past him.

It was Booth in his Richard III. costume! Madness had seized him, and, regardless of everything, at the still hour of midnight, he was going to pay a visit to his dead child. Drawing his flashing sword and throwing his jeweled cap from his head, he lashed his horse's flank with the bare weapon until the animal snorted in pain. The tall, dark trees on each side of him touched his heated brow with their silver-frosted branches, and thinking they were men in pursuit, the mad actor cut at them with the sword, and cursed them as he flew rapidly by. At last, after a gallant ride of two hours, the horseman came in sight of the country grave-yard, and, as he saw the white tops of the monuments peeping through the dark foliage like snowy crests upon the bosom of the dark billows, he raised a shout wild enough to have scared the ghosts from their graves. He dismounted, and away sped the riderless horse over hill and dale. It was the work of a moment (and the insane are cunning beyond all imagining) to wrench the wooden door from the vault containing the body of his child. He seized the tiny coffin in his arms, and with the strong arm of a desperate man he tore open the lid, and in a moment more the cold blue lips of the dead child were glued to the mad actor's! The next morning some member of the tragedian's family heard a wild strain of laughter that appeared to come from his sleeping room. The door was forced open, and Booth was discovered on his bed, gibbering in idiotic madness, and caressing the corpse of his little one.

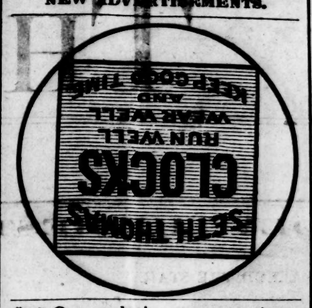

Encouragement for the Feeble:

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an abject melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among those organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, continued vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver disease, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

Songs of the Violet.

BY LUCY LARCOM.

Perhaps the violet has had more poems written about her than any flower except the rose. How can we help saying "her" of this lowly, sweet-breathed child of the meadow and road-side?

The air begins to be as sweet as if the breezes of another world were blown through ours, when the violets unfold. This, too, was noticed long ago. Shakspeare speaks of

"The sweet south,
That breathes upon a bank of violets,
Stealing and giving odor."

Barry Cornwall says this lovely thing about the violet:

"She comes, the first, the fairest thing
That heaven upon the earth doth fling,
Ere winter's star has set;
She dwells behind her leafy screen,
And gives as angels give unseen,—
The violet."

[From Scribner for April.]

Where is God?

MINOT J. SAVAGE.

"Oh, where is the sea?" the fishes cried,
As they swam the crystal clearness through,
"We've heard from old of the ocean's tide,
And we long to look on the waters blue.
The wise ones speak of the infinite sea;
Oh, who can tell us if such there be?"

The lark flew up in the morning bright,
And sung and balanced on sunny wings;
And this was its song:—"I see the light,
I look o'er a world of beautiful things;
But flying and singing everywhere,
In vain I have searched to find the air."

Digests of the Acts and Resolutions Passed by the General Assembly at Its Session of 1876-'77.

[Reported expressly for the NEWS.]

An Act to provide for the completion of the Western Asylum for the insane. (The Governor to appoint the commissioners to superintend the construction of the Western Asylum at Morganton; the commissioners may employ convicts: appropriates $30,000 for 1877, and the same amount for 1878, these sums to be expended on the main building and one wing.) Ratified March 7th, 1877.

A bill to incorporate the North Carolina Baptist Students' Aid Association. (Gives the Association the usual corporate powers to purchase, receive, hold, sell or otherwise dispose of real and personal property, for the purpose of assisting indigent young men to pursue their studies.) Ratified March 5th, 1877.

An Act for draining wet lands. (Any person, not a body corporate, desiring to do any work necessary for the draining of wet lands, affecting the lands of others, shall issue summons to the parties to the next term of the Superior Courts for the county, where the proceedings shall be as in other civil cases, and judgment rendered according to the facts empowering the plaintiff to do the work necessary to drain the wet lands, award the just damages, &c.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to define the jurisdiction of Judges of the Superior Courts in granting injunctions and for other purposes. (Judges appointed to hold the courts in the district in which the action or special proceeding is pending, shall appoint receivers, grant injunctions or restrain orders in that district, in his absence from the district, then the Judge resident in the district; and in the absence of both, then the Judge of an adjoining district may act, but either of these may issue a restraining order returnable in twenty days before the Judge holding the courts of the district at the time, who shall hear and determine the same. Judge holding a special term may issue injunctions, appoint receivers or issue restraining orders in the district in which the term is held, returnable before himself.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to amend section 16, chapter 44, of Battle's Revisal. (Requires 30 days' notice to the Governor and Attorney-General of the sale of all property under execution issued by any court in the State, in which property the State is interested as a stockholder or otherwise, said notice to set forth the time and place of sale and the process under which the sale is made, otherwise the sale shall be invalid.) Ratified the 8th day of March, 1877.

An Act to make uniform the taxation on all the banks in North Carolina. (Instructs the Treasurer to forbear the collection of all unpaid tax on the income or profits of any banks chartered by the State or any private bank doing business in the State, or the collection of all penalties for such non-payment; but where suit has been begun the parties defendant must pay accrued cost.) Ratified the 8th day of March, 1877.

An Act to legalize Holden township, in the county of Wayne, and to change the name thereof (Legalizes the township and changes the name to Great Swamp township.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to require the treasurer of Martin county to pay county orders according to number. (Title explains provision of the act; penalty for failure is ten dolars for each offence.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to authorize New Hanover county to levy special tax. (May levy a special tax for 1877 and 1878 to pay county expenses.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to amend the laws relating to the town of Tarboro. (Amends the charter of the town in several particulars, but being a local law, is not of general interest.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to incorporate Cumberland Lodge, No. 5, Knights of Pythias, in the town of Fayetteville, in the county of Cumberland. (Usual Act of incorporation for such bodies.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act supplemental to an Act to amend the charter of the town of Fayetteville. (Makes it a misdemeanor to sell wines, liquor, &c., within the corporate limits in less quantities than three gallons, without first obtaining a license from the county commissioners and paying an annual tax of $200.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to amend the charter of the town of Fayetteville and to regulate the election of mayor and commissioners. (Local Act of no general interest; not to take effect until approved and ratified by the mayor and commissioners of the town.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to establish Neuse River township in the county of Wake. Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to empower the commissioners of Person county to levy a special tax. (Levy not to exceed $8,000, to be used in paying off county indebtedness, but not to be levied until ratified by a majority of the voters of county.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to authorize the board of commissioners of Yadkin county to levy a special tax to pay the debt of said county and to issue bonds to secure the payment of the debt. (May levy a special tax not to exceed $5,000 in any one year, the authority to levy the tax to cease when the debt of the county is paid, or they may issue bonds for the purpose to run ten years.) Ratified the 8th day of March, 1877.

An Act to amend chapter 44, Private Laws of 1874-'75, and authorize the construction of a branch road from Haysville to Murphy and to the Tennessee line. (Incorporates the Haysville and Murphy Turnpike Company, with the usual powers of such incorporations, and may increase the stock and continue the turnpike from Murphy to the Tennessee line.) Ratified March 8th, 1877.

An Act to establish normal schools. (The State Board of Education may establish a normal school in connection with the University, for training and educating, white young men for teachers, and appropriates $2,000 a year for 1877 and 1878; the board may also establish a normal school at some point in the State, for training colored young men for teachers, and appropriates the same amount for the same years.) Ratified March 9th, 1877.

An Act to amend chapter 201, laws of 1874-'75, entitled an act providing for a fence law for the counties of Anson, Union and Guilford. (Makes some slight alterations in regard to the time and manner of voting in the townships in questions in regard to fences, and exempts Anson and Union counties from the operations of the law.) Ratified March 9th, 1877.

An Act to incorporate Mount Mourne Lodge, No. 347, F. A. A. M., in the county of Iredell. (Usual act of incorporation.) Ratified March 9th, 1877.

An Act to enable the trustees of the Presbyterian Church at Louisburg to transfer certain property. (Authorizes the trustees to transfer, by deed, the church lot and building in Louisburg to the Orange Presbytery, provided a majority of the members of the said church give their assent thereto.) Ratified the 9th day of March, 1877.

An Act to amend the charter o the town of Concord, in the county of Cabarrus. (Constitutes the mayor an inferior court with all the powers and authority of a Justice of the Peace, within the corporate limits of the town, to try causes arising under the ordinances of the town, imposes fines and penalties &c.) Ratified the 9th day of March, 1877.

An Act to canal Angola Bay. (Details 30 convicts from the penitentiary, under proper guard, to cut a canal from Croom's bridge across the North East river through Angola Bay to the Duplin or Pender county line, for the purpose of draining and making saleable certain adjacent wet lands belonging to the Board of Education.) Ratified March 9th, 1877.

An Act to amend chapter 235, laws of 1869-'70. (Changes the time of appointing commissioners of navigation by the mayor and aldermen of Wilmington, from the regular meeting in April to that of June, and the time for said commissioners to enter upon their duties, from the first day of May to the first day of September.) Ratified the 9th day of March, 1877.

An Act to amend an act entitled an act to incorporate the Wilmington and Coast Turnpike Company, ratified the 19th day of March, 1875. (Allows the shares of the company subscribed for branches of the road to be merged with the stock subscribed for the main line by consent of the holders thereof; also imposes a penalty for fraudulent use of the road or the property of the company.) Ratified the 9th day of March, 1877.

An Act to amend section 23, chapter 45, Battle's Revisal. (Amends so as to allow public administrators after the expiration of the terms of office or resignation, to continue to administer and manage the estates committed to them prior thereto, until they shall have fully administered the same, provided they enter into sufficient bonds &c.) Ratified March 9th, 1877.

Mr. Hayes and His Position.

The Edinburgh Scotsman, of the 3d inst., says:

By fair means or foul, the Republicans have secured the control of the national administration for at least four years to come. Mr. Hayes has twice filled with credit the office of Governor of Ohio, and if he were free to follow the policy which he believes to be the best, it is probable that he would make an admirable President. But he enters on his high office weighted not only with the stigma of a doubtful election, and with the difficulties which are sure to spring from the intense animosity of the exasperated Democratic opposition, but by party obligations which he will find impossible to elude. He stands pledged to civil-service reform, and to an equitable Southern policy. Yet the men to whose tactics in the Legislature he owes his position, and some of whom will assuredly be members of his Cabinet, will be the last to advise the abolition of a single sinecure post or the smallest recognition of capacity rather than party service in the exercise of the official patronage. As for the South, if the new President recognizes the Democratic Governors and Legislatures in South Carolina and Louisiana he will expel from power the very men whose manipulation of the electoral returns and control of the official personnel have given him the votes of those States; if, on the other hand, he stands by Chamberlain and Packard, the present regime of administrative corruption, social disorganization and widespread lawlessness will be prolonged, and the problem of Southern reconstruction will remain as far as ever from solution. That which General Grant, with his immense personal prestige, might have accomplished in the way of administrative reform and impartial rule in the districts yet suffering under the blight of the war, will, it is to be feared, be beyond the reach of Mr. Hayes.

Secretary Schurz's Paper.

The Westliche Post has dropped the name of Carl Schurz as editor, and publishes the following:

The entrance of Mr. Schurz into the Cabinet naturally makes necessary the severance of his editorial connection with the Westliche Post. Although his proprietary interest in the Post remains the same, Mr. Schurz, while he occupies his official position, will not be responsible for our editorial utterances any more than we shall be responsible for his official acts.

Another $3,500 Heard From.

To the Editor of the News:

In connection with the carpet-bag firm of "Tourgee & Horsefall," in this morning's issue, you ask, "where is the $3,500?"

It is not so clear, especially to the unfortunate tax payers of Granville county, where this $3,500 is. But there is another $3,500, about which A. W. Tourgee can enlighten you. $3,500 seems to linger near him. In the Shipp Fraud Commission pages 203, 318 and 225, it is shown, on oath, that A. W. Tourgee, while a member of the Canby carpet-bag convention of 1868 received $3,500 from M. S. Littlefield, for what services the context shows. Tourgee has never denied it.

Yet a "reforming" President keeps this man in one of the best Federal offices in North Carolina—pension agent, with about $3,000. It was taken from an honest man to give him. "By their acts shall ye know them."

NORTH CAROLINA.

"Fragrant and Gilt-Edged."

To the Editor of the News:

I notice that in this morning's issue you speak of the "fragrant and gilt-edged" Tourgee.

As he will think he sees in this a chance to get some money out of your paper and bring suit according to the custom of carpet-baggers, I would suggest that you can plead justification and prove the charges.

I. As to being "fragrant," Tourgee is a miscegenationist, and the author of one or two miscegenation novels. Nothing more need be said to prove "fragrancy."

II. As to "gilt-edged," you will have to fall back on the doctrine of "idem sonans," and call it "guilt-edged." You will have him then

NOON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON.

Important Cabinet Meeting--Intense Interest--The Southern Question under Advisement--No Outbreak to be Tolerated--Packard Enrolling Negroes--Christiancy for Mexico and Foster for Spain--Lamar Better--The President on Packard's Threatened Outbreak.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Intense interest attaches to the Cabinet session to-day, but it is certain that the proceedings will be only preliminary.

The Baltimore American says that Mr. Hayes yesterday announced to several parties that called upon him on the subject, that the administration would take up the rival Southern claims in the Cabinet meeting to-day, but if the opposing parties in New Orleans are as hot for a fight as they are represented, the fulfilment of his generous and amicable intentions may be delayed. At all events, there can be no withdrawal of the troops so long as ferocious threats fill the atmosphere, and attempts are made to drive the President to a reckless haste.

The President has received no visitors to-day, and will have no time during the entire day to devote to callers.

A cabinet council is in session, having met at 10 o'clock and is likely to continue during the greater portion of the day. All the members are present, and the affairs of South Carolina and Louisiana are under consideration. There are a vast number of papers bearing upon these cases that are being examined by the cabinet. Very little discussion is involved in the consideration, as there is a harmony of views between the President and cabinet in the matters before them. It does not seem probable, judging from what is already known, that these cases will be disposed of separately, but it is believed that upon the subject of withdrawing troops from their present position in New Orleans and Columbia the same direction will be given. There is intense interest manifested to know the results of the considerations now engrossing the attention of the cabinet, but up to this hour the indications are not favorable for a final determination.

Lamar is much better and able to sit up.

New Orleans dispatches say that upward of 300 negroes were enrolled in the Packard militia yesterday, making the total force of men at the State House about 500.

Senator Christiancy may go to Mexico, and Foster, now in Mexico, be transferred to Spain.

The President has received information of the intention on the part of Packard of aggressive movement. The President is quoted as saying that Packard must have a poor opinion of the judgment, and a worse one of the firmness, of the administration if he contemplates anything of the kind.

How Russia Stands--Good and Bad News--Crisis Thought to be at Hand.

LONDON, March 20.—Russia will not demobilize until three events have happened: First, the signature of the protocol; second, the conclusion of peace between Turkey and Montenegro, and third, a preliminary demobilization of the Sultan's forces. There is a dead lock in the consummation of a treaty between Turkey and Servia, on a matter of etiquette, and Montenegro is stubborn about the cession of nicsic.

The Vienna dispatch to the Times says that simultaneous with the good news from the West comes nothing but bad news from the East. The intelligence in regard to the popular feeling in Constantinople indicates a state of things which experience has proven to be the precursor of a great crisis.

FOREIGN.

News from Rome--A Movement Against the Freebooter Victor Emanuel--New Bishops--Betting on the Boat Race.

LONDON, March 20.—The News publishes a remarkable letter from its correspondent at Rome, containing the following: The extreme section of ultramontanes are at this moment enlisting adherents to create a Roman question. Various Jesuits, bearing instructions from Father Beckx, General of the Jesuits, have arrived at the Vatican from Florence. Father Beckx warmly counsels the project. I have positive assurance that Beckx and his adherents promise little short of a speedy re-establishment of the temporal powers of the Pope. There is no doubt that steps in this direction have long been preparing. The Catholic societies in Austria and Germany have pledged themselves to co-operate. One essential feature of the plan is that the next conclave is to be held in Rome, so the new Pope may be proclaimed a prisoner like Pius. Cardinal Simconi approves and supports the plan, and the Pope has himself written letters to the Emperor of Austria, the King of Belgium, President McMahon and ex-Queen Isabella.

A series of express instructions have been issued from the Vatican to avoid collision with the civil authorities, but at the same time to keep up a pressure on the Catholic powers to obtain their adhesion to a crusade for the resuscitation of the Roman question. The Vatican has obtained lists of volunteers prepared to serve under the papal flag, and large sums of money have already been deposited in France and England.

ROME, Mar. 20.—At a consistory held to-day the Pope nominated several Bishops, among them Rev. Michael Hannon, as Bishop of Halifax and Rev. John Morci, for St. Augustine, Fla.

The Pope pronounced a brief alocution, re-affirming with increased vehemence his declarations of March 12th.

LONDON, Mar. 20.—Betting at Oxford and Cambridge is the event to-day,

TROY, VERMONT, March 20.—Forty-second earthquake this morning.

WASHINGTON.

Admiral Rowan's Flagship---A Long Cabinet Meeting---Conservatives Hopeful--Mail Service in the Black Hills--Patterson Still Prating--Off on a Cruise.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Powhattan is ordered from Norfolk to New York, where she will be Admiral Rowan's flag-ship.

There was a five hours Cabinet meeting and then it adjourned until to-morrow, when a decision will be reached. The President himself declines to converse on the subject. The Radicals now have no hope beyond the "compromising commissions." The conservatives are confident that the policy will be immediately enforced.

The mail service has been ordered to the Black Hills country.

Patterson, with his South Carolina delegation, reported their speeches to-day to the Attorney-General, who gave them no decisive answer.

The Ossippe has sailed from Pensacola for a cruise around the north coast of Cuba.

Dissolution of the Gold Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The New York Gold Exchange was virtually dissolved this afternoon by the adoption of an amendment to the constitution to the effect that where a majority of the members shall agree to dissolve, the dissolution shall take place. When dissolved three members will be appointed to wind up the affairs and divide the assets. The room after dissolution will be used by the Stock Exchange for the sale of gold bonds and miscellaneous securities.

The Ohio Senatorship.

COLUMBUS, March 20.—In the lower branch of the Legislature to-day a ballot was taken for United States Senator, Stanley Matthews (Republican) received sixty-four votes, Alfred Garther six and Frank Hurd one. Thirty-four Democrats voted blank. In the Senate Mr. Matthews received twenty votes; thirteen Democrats voted blank. Both houses will meet in joint convention to-morrow to officially declare the election of Matthews.

Don Elected.

HARRISBURG, March 20.—The two Houses of the Legislature, in separate session, elected Don Cameron to the United States Senate. The joint session will confirm the action to-morrow.

Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—For the South Atlantic States warmer southeast to southwest winds, falling barometer, increasing cloudiness and areas of rain.
